SCOUTING REPORT

TECHNICAL 8.0 / 10
Comfortable using both feet and able to solve difficult actions at speed. Carries effectively and can execute a useful final pass after separation. His technique is functional rather than especially polished; finishing and execution are less refined than a classic high-skill winger.

TACTICAL 8.2 / 10
Excellent fit for aggressive high pressing. Sacrifices for the team, combines well and attacks space with conviction. His movement is fluid rather than positionally rigid, adding unpredictability but reducing positional discipline. Less suited to breaking compact low blocks through pure creativity.

PHYSICAL 8.8 / 10
Outstanding pace and repeat-effort capacity for the level. Strong in youth duels, willing to use his body and comfortable with contact. Goes to ground regularly but retains adequate balance. Speed, resistance and intensity are major differentiators.

PSYCH / SOCIAL 9.0 / 10
Very competitive, aggressive and confident in his abilities. Never stops working, reacts strongly after losses and maintains intensity throughout actions. Decision-making is generally sound and his mentality suits demanding pressing environments.

SCOUT'S NOTE

Soto stands out above all for his physical capacity and intensity. His aggression in the press and ability to repeat high-speed efforts are highly valuable in the modern game, especially when combined with more than adequate technical quality. He is not a classic aesthetically polished winger; his game is more direct, energetic and instinctive. He attacks space very well, competes through contact and can solve technically demanding situations with either foot. His profile looks particularly interesting for teams that value pressing, verticality and attacking transitions.
